Iran is home to over 400 varieties of dates, cultivated across its warm southern regions. With ideal sun exposure, rich desert soils, and traditional harvesting techniques, Iranian dates are celebrated for their natural sweetness, soft texture, and nutritional richness. From the succulent Mazafati to the dry and fibrous Zahedi, each variety offers a unique sensory profile. Iranian dates are increasingly recognized as a healthy, sustainable sweetener with global appeal.

KIYASHA

Kiyasha Trading offers a complete solution for sourcing and exporting Iranian dates, delivering both quality and variety at scale. Our supply chain spans key date-growing regions such as Bam (Mazafati), Bushehr (Kabkab), Fars (Zahedi), Khuzestan (Sayer), and Hormozgan (Piarom), each producing distinct textures, flavors, and sugar profiles. We manage the full cycle from harvest to final packing, with thorough sorting by grade, size, moisture, and color. This ensures our dates arrive fresh, safe, and ready for direct consumption or processing, depending on the needs of each market.

Our product range includes fresh, semi-dried, and dry varieties, along with value-added offerings like date paste, syrup, chopped dates, and chocolate-coated dates. Shelf Life Overview & Storage Tips

Dates are naturally shelf-stable due to their low water activity, but shelf life varies significantly by type.

For reference:

- Mazafati (soft): 6–9 months in cold storage (0–5°C), can be frozen for 12+ months
- Piarom (semi-dry): 12 months at 15°C, 18 months in cooler conditions
- Zahedi / Sayer (dry): 18–24 months at 10–15°C in shaded conditions

To extend shelf life:

- Use MAP (Modified Atmosphere Packaging) or vacuum packing for moist varieties
- Store in food-grade containers with desiccants to absorb residual humidity
- Instruct buyers to avoid cross-contamination with spices or pungent products during warehousing

For buyers in the bakery, confectionery, and healthy snacking industries, chopped and paste forms should be refrigerated if unused beyond 2 months.
